STRIKE TO DEFEND YOUR PENSION 30 NOVEMBER

Following a “yes” vote in our industrial action ballot, UNISON members are preparing for action on 30 November – If you were balloted you need to make sure you are one of them.
Your willingness to take action over your pension has forced ministers back to the negotiating table and UNISON is committed to taking part in meaningful talks about public service pensions. We will now be examining the new proposals in detail and moving into sector specific negotiations. However, unless and until acceptable offers are made, it is important that we keep the pressure on by preparing to take action on 30 November.

By doing so we will be standing shoulder to shoulder with other public sector unions to fight for decent pensions.

We know that going out on strike is the last thing you want to do, especially when you are faced with a pay freeze and job cuts – but if you care about your future you can’t afford not to. And we know you worry about the people you care for and protect – so our actions will not put lives at risk.

We are asking members who have been balloted to find out what is happening by:

- talking to your steward and/or branch pension champion
- visiting the UNISON website at unison.org.uk

You should also ask colleagues to join the union and get involved in our campaign.

Together we are stronger. Together we can win.
